Pledges Safety

MEXICO CITY, Dec. 5. (AP)—President Lazaro Cardenas promised today that Mexico's 16,000 rural school teachers would be given arms to protect their lives as they spread Socialistic education throughout the country.

He gave this pledge to representatives of the thousands of teachers who paraded in the capital yesterday, demanding guarantees of safety against rebels who have killed and mutilated many of their number recently.

The instructors, led by two women teachers from Jalisco whose ears have been cut from their heads, coupled their call for protection with a request for higher wages and a pledge of support to President Cardenas and the program of Socialistic education.

In his speech to the demonstrators, the president made no answer to their demands, but he received a delegation later in the national palace and said he would make arrangements with the war department to distribute arms to the teachers.

After a conference with Gonzalo Yaguez Vela, federal secretary of education, the president also told the teachers an effort would be made to guarantee them a minimum salary of three pesos (about 84 cents) a day.

FRAUD SUSPECT INDICTED HERE

Albert L. Acree, 50, Los Angeles, is being held in the county jail under $15,000 bail following his indictment by the county grand jury yesterday on charges of violating the state corporate securities act.

Acree was taken into court before Presiding Judge J. A. Allen late yesterday after the indictment had been returned, and had the date for his arraignment set for Friday, Dec. 13.

According to the indictment, Acree and a partner, said to be in Chicago at present, allegedly sold worthless stocks to Orange county people, taking in exchange valuable stocks and securities.

T.R.'S GRANDSON FACES TRIAL

CAMBRIDGE, Mass., Dec. 5. (AP)—Cornelius Van Shaaek Roosevelt, grandson of former President Theodore Roosevelt, and a fellow student, were held today for the grand jury on charges of assault and battery with a dangerous weapon.

Roosevelt and Peter de Florez, Massachusetts Institute of Technology students, were accused of discharging air pistols at a newspaperman and two policemen.

Santa Ana Has Babylon of Its Own

Reporter Finds 21 Tents Packed With Babble

By ROCH BRADSHAW

Santa Ana has a Babylon of its own. I wanted to see it, so Lynn H. Crawford, high school principal, took me on a tour of the tent city which houses a great many of the high school courses.

Although Santa Ana's Babylon is built of wood and canvas it has plenty of the babble that made Babylon famous.

On a tour of the city you can hear Spanish, French, Latin, English and trigonometry spoken.

Through the canvas walls of one tent come the voices of students in one group, mingling with those of the class next door, while across the way whirs a sewing machine and down the row a short distance the peck of a typewriter puts periods and commas where they don't belong in a recitation going on in another tent.

Twenty-one tents packed full of babble. And it can't be helped, because people have to talk if they are going to impart and gain knowledge. Cars driving past on the adjacent street add a touch of noise that was lacking in ancient Babylon.

"All of us pick on the dramatics class," remarked Mr. Crawford. "Particularly when they get to emoting. The sound carries into all the adjoining tents."

It must be pretty hard for John Student to concentrate on atoms and ions when down the street he hears a fair maiden in the dramatics class pleading to be rescued from the villain. But that's the way things go in Babylon.

Mr. Crawford showed me the reason why Babylon was built. The students used to go to school in buildings of brick and mortar. Those buildings are not occupied any more. We took a walk through them and looked at sunlight through cracks in the brick walls, made by the 1933 earthquake.

We saw evidence that walls have moved out of plumb. We saw cracks from the top to the bottom of one building. On the second floor of one building Mr. Crawford jumped up and down. The windows rattled and it seemed like the floor was being shaken by another quake. And please turn to Page 3, Col. 3)

WATER FACTS TO BE TOLD

Speakers Will Spread Data About County Flood Project

Orange county is going to know the facts about the water project on which it will vote Dec. 18.

It is going to hear how the big project will provide jobs for every man who wants one, how the business man will benefit from money to be put into circulation, how the program will insure adequate water and flood control, and why it will be cheaper for the taxpayer to carry out the project than to do without it.

Speakers on Air

During the next two weeks a squadron of speakers will carry the facts about the vital project to every part of the county. Tonight the first of these talks will be given by W. H. Spurgeon, chairman of the citizens committee supporting the program. Mr. Spurgeon will speak over KREG, Santa Ana radio station, from 7:30 to 8 p. m. Edward M. Hall, Santa Ana rancher, will be master of ceremonies on the program, which will include musical numbers.

Mr. Spurgeon will tell of the importance of the water conservation and flood control project to all property owners and citizens.

Chapman to Talk

Next Tuesday, from 6:45 to 7:15 p. m., Stanley Chapman of Fullerton will speak over KREG. Mr. Chapman is a compelling speaker who has analyzed the tax aspect of the program with striking clarity.

Next week two mass meetings will be held, one at Anaheim, and one at Orange. The Anaheim meeting will take place Tuesday at 3 p. m. in the Fremont school. The Orange mass meeting will be held in the Legion clubhouse there at 7:30 p. m. next Thursday.

Other Talks

In the next two weeks there will appear at numerous other gatherings.

CLIPPER POINTS FOR ALAMEDA

HONOLULU, Dec. 5. (AP)—The Pan-American Clipper, China Clipper, completing history's first round trip air mail flight across the Pacific, pointed toward home today.

Capt. Edwin C. Musick prepared to start for Alameda, Calif., base at 3 p. m. with seven crew members and three tons of mail aboard. The clipper landed here yesterday at 5:27 p. m. from Midway island with 24 persons aboard, those in addition to the crew being employees of Pan-American Airways from other Pacific stations.

Husky Ex-Football Player Embroiders Lovely Things; But Don't Call Him 'Sissy'

MILWAUKEE, Dec. 5. (AP)—Harry (Husky) Haberman hitched his stool closer to the bar in his suburban Wauwatosa tavern as his strong fingers directed a crocheting needle over a mesh bed spread.

"Now you take that Turkey Gehrke fellow up at Watertown," he said today. "When the weather turns cold, he goes to bed. Not me. I pick up my needle and crochet; or maybe I cut out a pattern and sew mother a dress, or knit dat a tie."

"Sure, I've crocheted for many years and I haven't found a woman who can match it. But they don't call me sissy. A couple of guys tried it and landed out on the street."

The crocheting tavern keeper, a former football player, in emphasis of his "no sissy" remark picked up a barrel of beer and lifted it three feet to a place in an ice box.

The bed spread he was crocheting was one-fourth done after two years of work and contained 90 balls of fine, mercerized cotton. When completed in another four or five years it will be worth $1500, he said.

For Christmas presents Harry has embroidered pillow slips, hemstitched handkerchiefs and knit a swaggar coat.

HOPES RAISED FOR BRUNO DEBTS TOLD

Governor Hoffman Bares Visit in Hauptmann's Death House Cell

NEW YORK, Dec. 5. (AP)—Gov. Harold G. Hoffman of New Jersey disclosed today he had visited Bruno Richard Hauptmann in his death cell at Trenton, N. J.

This disclosure followed reports published in the New York Evening Journal that the governor had obtained new information which might save the convicted slayer of the Lindbergh baby from the electric chair, or "at least delay his execution indefinitely."

The governor talked with Hauptmann alone one night for about an hour early in October, but did not reveal today either his or Hauptmann's reactions.

The governor said all other members of the court of pardons should follow his example in getting "first-hand" the convicted man's side of the case.

The New Jersey court of pardons is the final tribunal to which Hauptmann may bring his case should he fail in his fight before the U. S. supreme court.

Repeal Praised on One Side; Prohibition's Return Predicted

WASHINGTON, Dec. 5. (AP)—The historic controversy over prohibition raged again today, the second anniversary of the repeal of the 18th amendment.

One side praised repeal as a success. The other, disagreeing sharply, predicted a comeback for prohibition.

While W. H. Stayton, executive director of Repeal Associates, and others contended there has been a marked decline in lawlessness, the Anti-Saloon League of America began a "new crusade" for prohibition.

League Raps F. D. R.

Stating President Roosevelt should condemn "violation" of his "pledge" that the saloon would never return, the league convention in St. Louis also demanded abolition of the "use of intoxicants at all White House and public functions."

In the absence of President Roosevelt, there was no immediate comment here today. It was recalled that accounts of formal White House functions have told of the serving of light American vintage wines. Beer has been served at some informal gatherings.

In an interview, Stayton looked back over the past year, which saw 14 states join the ranks of those which permit legal sale. The number now stands at 41, as compared with 19 before prohibition.

What They Think

"In the states where local control of the traffic has been established," Stayton said, "poison alcohol dealers are now practically nonexistent."

DEMAND JURY PROBE H.B. OIL ROW

Citizens Ask Charges Made by N. E. West Be Investigated

MAYOR TELLS MOVE

Talbert Says Complete

Study of Insinuations

Should Be Made

A formal demand that the grand jury conduct an investigation of charges hurled by Supervisor N. E. West that recent Huntington Beach tideland oil legislation had developed a "little Teapot Dome scandal" was made on that body Monday, it was learned today.

It was also demanded that Supervisor West be called before the jury and asked to explain his charges and insinuations involving State Senator Nelson T. Edwards of Orange and other state senators and assemblymen.

Delegation Makes Demand

The demand for the investigation was presented to the grand jury by a delegation of representative citizens from the beach city, according to Mayor Tom Talbert.

Mayor Talbert said that charges hurled by Supervisor West at the time a proposed island drilling bill was defeated at Sacramento formed the basis of the demand for an investigation.

"The charges and insinuations by Mr. West," he said, "have involved city and state officials to such extent that a complete and thorough investigation is necessary."

It was indicated that in addition to Mr. West, Senator Edwards, Speaker Ted Craig of the assembly, Assemblyman James B. Utt, Mayor Talbert and others probably would be called before the grand jury when the matter is taken up.

Rapped Edwards

During the day was adopted permitting whipstool drilling into the state oil pool, Supervisor West declared that several legislators had admitted to him that they were dominated by "big business." He TSINAN, China, Dec. 5. (AP)—Gen. Han Fu Chu, governor of Shantung, is employing an iron hand in suppressing the self-government movement in Eastern Shantung. It was disclosed today.

TAYLORSVILLE, N. C., Dec. 5. (AP)—A jury in this mountainous country will be asked soon to pass judgment on a patricide that witnesses said was provoked by the father's abuse of his 18-year-old son, Willard Teague.

Young Teague was brought before Justice of the Peace H. C. Payne and bound over to superior court, without privilege of bond.

REPORT RAPS NEW DEAL

Industrial Leaders at Convention Line Up in Opposition

NEW YORK, Dec. 5. (AP)—A report decriing what it termed an effort to project "the New Deal into the future of America" was presented to the Congress of American Industry today by its committee on the relation of government to industry.

Presented for consideration of the congress by C. L. Bardo, president of the National Association of Manufacturers, the committee's report said it had taken exception to a continuation of the government's emergency plan of action and proposed legislation.

Raps Legislation

This legislation, it contended, is "an effort to place in our system a series of permanent statutes, projecting the New Deal into the future of America."

The committee report added, "we join in the demand made by every enlightened economic organization for abandonment of the philosophy that prosperity can be produced through curtailing production, whether in agriculture or industry."

A 1936 platform of "rugged individualism," as opposed to New Deal policies, was also submitted today to the association.

Leaders of the large industrial organization, meeting in its fortieth annual convention, predicted overwhelming ratification on the platform.

The Platform

"The maintenance of constitutional guarantees, preservation of the right of property."

GRAND JURY HAS EXTRA SESSION

Criminal Prosecution May Be Changed for Dismissal Action

PROBE MAY WIDEN

Lambert Said Due for

'Severe Censure' on

'Leeway' Methods

Injection of two new angles into the investigation of the office of County Auditor William Lambert, indicted last week on 32 felony counts, was indicated today as the county grand jury held another extra session.

The grand jurors were considering testimony given yesterday by County Auditor William Lambert, it was indicated, and attempting to determine whether or not his willingness to grant "leeway" in the matter of monthly settlements with the county by department heads constitutes one of the "absolute technicalities" of the law which he had previously told that body could not be followed if anything were to be accomplished.

Open to Censure

It was rumored that several members of the jury are taking the stand that through granting "leeway," Mr. Lambert has laid himself open to severe censure if not charges of a technical law violation.

The other angle said to have been injected into the investigation, that probably will reach into more county offices, is the possibility of bringing out proceedings against Miss Whitney rather than continuing the criminal prosecution based on the 32-count indictment returned against her more than a week ago.

Code's Provisions

It has been pointed out that under section 758 of the penal code, the grand jury may return an accusation, in writing, against any public official, charging him, or her, with wilful or corrupt misconduct in office, for the purpose of ousting that official from office.

Gossip current around the courthouse today, following Mr. Lambert's session with the grand jury yesterday, was that members of that body were more or less critical of his failure to call the LOS ANGELES, Dec. 5. (AP)—Evidence in the strange "scissors death" of Mrs. Sarah Herring, 58, disclosed by an autopsy as from natural causes, comes before a coroner's jury today.

The Bus Driver Speaks

Recalls Poor Girl, 'Regular Rider,' Who Struck It Rich

By VIRGINIA SMITH

"A blue streak, too," he added reflectively.

Before the crash, the bus driver had been spinning a yarn about his "most interesting experience." And I thought he had been gal-lant.

"I drove the bus between Los Angeles and here for 15 years," he said. "And every morning on the 5:25 run, I'd pick up a young girl at Santa Fe Springs. The bus would be pretty crowded and the only room would be in the back with a bunch of Mexican fellows. "She was shabbily dressed and always carried her lunch and the fellows got to making fun of her. It made me mad, so I told the man who got on at Orange every morning and sat on the front seat with me that I was saving that place for her."

"Of course they guyed me a lot about it. One day, she left her lunch and I had to trot down the street after her."

"Then I was transferred to another run and about three years later, the man from Orange happened to take my bus and told me the good news about 'my girl friend.'"

Ooh, thought I, he married the girl. But it was more of a fairy tale than that.

"He told me that they'd struck oil on the lot which she and her mother owned at Santa Fe Springs. And they now had a limousine and a big house and servants, and were really rich."

The driver stopped in the middle of the block to let off an elderly man whose clothes spoke of money sufficient to buy several buses himself.

"He rides with me every night. Please Turn to Page 3, Col. 3)

ENGLAND AND LEAGUE AGREE ON PLANS FOR ITALY OIL EMBARGO

HOARE TELLS ENGLAND'S APPROVAL

Franco - British Peace 'Suggestions' Given to Fascist Leaders

LONDON, Dec. 5. (AP)—Sir Samuel Hoare, foreign secretary, delivered a pronouncement today of the British stand for oil sanctions against Italy when he told the house of commons "we are prepared to play our part."

The foreign secretary told the commons Great Britain as well as the League of Nations had already agreed to the oil embargo in principle.

"The question still to be decided," he said, "is whether the action of non-member states would render ineffective the action of member states."

FRANCO-BRITISH PEACE 'SUGGESTIONS' MADE

By the Associated Press

Great Britain and France have given Italy a "set of suggestions" for ending the Italo-Ethiopian war with an appended comment which said in effect, "take it or leave it."

Diplomatic sources said today it represented the last word of London and Paris before an oil embargo is applied against the government of Premier Benito Mussolini.

Embargo Means Fight
In the face of assurances by Fascist sources that such an embargo would mean "fight," Premier Laval of France was reported authoritatively to have given the "suggestions" to Italian Ambassador Vittorio Cerruti late yesterday.

No change in the attitude of the Italian government was apparent.

Only cold silence has greeted Premier Laval's efforts to have Rome indicate on what basis it would negotiate—or even whether it would negotiate at all.

Only Suggestions
The Franco-British proposals were not, it was said in diplomatic circles, fixed plans for peace, but merely were "suggestions" to forestall any possibility of complete rejection by Mussolini.

The suggestions were reported to have included:

1. Cession of a seaport in Italy's East African colony of Eritrea to Ethiopia.

2. A slight change in the frontier between Ethiopia's northern Tigre province and Eritrea, leaving Ethiopia in control of the holy city of Aksum.

3. Acquisition by Italy of Ethiopian territory south of eight degrees north latitude, including Ogaden province, and west to 38 or 40 degrees east longitude.

4. The remainder of Ethiopia to be entirely independent.

The proposals were said to represent compromise between the French and British viewpoints.

Watch United States
The Italians were watching the United States closely for further indications of the attitude here. This country has been furnishing about 6 per cent of Italy's oil imports, but could, if it desired, meet all Italy's emergency requirements.

A royal decree imposed official secrecy on Italy's financial situation, suspending publication of treasury figures, statistics on the public debt and statements of the Bank of Italy, against the League of Nations' economic siege.

MORE ABOUT LAMBERT

attention of the proper authorities to Miss Whitney's failure in complying with the law regarding the filing of monthly statements until 16 such offenses had been committed. It was indicated that the criticism centered around the accusation that he had failed to realize his responsibility in the matter.

Granted 'Leeway'
Before Mr. Lambert was recalled to the grand jury room yesterday it was reported that members of that body were not satisfied with his previous explanation of why he had permitted the county auditor to delay monthly settlements on some occasions, for as long as 21 days after the date prescribed by law for such settlement.

He had previously testified that he had granted Miss Whitney "leeway" until the October settlement when, according to his testimony, there had been "more or less rumor" and he became "apprehensive about it."

In his first appearance before the grand jury Mr. Lambert, according to the transcript of the proceedings in which Miss Whitney was indicted, told that group that several times he had questioned the recorder about her delays in settlement of her monthly account with the county.

'Regular Occurrences'
On each occasion, he testified, Miss Whitney either told him that she would "have the money ready" within a day or two, or that she "did not have the money ready." He also testified that these delays were regular occurrences.

He admitted that he had always understood that Miss Whitney's delays in settlement were caused

START NEW DANCING PLAN Young Folk Frolic Tuesday

Young Santa Ana is making history.

When Jane and Henry and Bill and Mary trek to the "Palms" at the corner of Third and Ross streets Tuesday for an evening of dancing, they'll be charter attendants at Santa Ana's first community sports dance.

If anybody ever told you that "Santa Ana's a clique-ish town," here's your chance to disprove that statement. All young people over 18 years of age are being invited to the new community dance series.

Plans for Future
Big plans for the future are being made by Mrs. R. E. Russick, Santa Ana's policewoman, whose dream of community recreation for young people prompted the beginning of the new organization. Invitations for the dance are required, and may be obtained from Mrs. Russick. Twenty-five cents is being charged for a couple or two boys or two girls attending, and 15 cents for a single admission. Proceeds will go to pay for the hall and for punch to be served in the evening.

Many Are Hosts
Leon Eccles, Orange county supervisor of music in the WPA, has arranged for a 12-piece orchestra directed by Frank Niemann to play from 8:30 o'clock until midnight Tuesday.

Mayor Fred Rowland and Mrs. Rowland, Dr. Roy S. Horton and Mrs. Horton, and Messrs. and Mesdames W. H. Spurgeon, Plummer, Bruns, Burr Shaffer, E. M. Sundquist and R. E. Russick will be hosts for the evening.

For later dances, membership cards will be issued and attendance will be entirely by membership.

WIVES SURPRISE KIWANIAN Hold 'School' At Luncheon

"What's going on here?"

"Satan is in the wrong place?"

"Well for—why there's my wife over there!"

These and similar remarks were made by Kiwanians yesterday as they walked into the banquet hall at the James cafe for what they believed would be their regular luncheon meeting. It was surprise party for the wives of Kiwanians, who were in charge of the program. Mrs. Loren Moore, wife of the club's president, acted as mistress of ceremonies.

Before the meeting was turned over to Mrs. Moore, the 135 persons who attended the luncheon were led in songs by Jerry Hall, accompanied by Arthur Cannon. Mr. Cannon played two solo numbers on the piano.

Country School Theme
The theme of the program presented by the wives of Kiwanians centered around an old country school. A miniature stage was set up in the dining hall, and was occupied by the "teacher," Mrs. Cassius Paul, and her eight pupils. They marched onto the stage to the tune of "School Days," played by Miss Ruth Armstrong. The pupils were dressed in "kid costumes," and were called upon to give the definitions of words. "An epistle is the wife of an apostle," one of them said.

tion of the freedom of private enterprise, maintenance of sound tax and financial policies and security through economic progress."

Submission of the program came after a series of speeches hostile to the New Deal. Nearly every speaker has attacked it. Among them were Alfred P. Sloan, Jr., president of General Motors; Robert L. Lund, chairman of the association's board of directors; James A. Emery, the association's general counsel, and C. L. Bardo, president of the association.

Warns Business
Sloan warned American business last night that it must assume broader responsibilities or face the alternative of increasing governmental interference.

Expressing fear that the "natural evolution of bureaucracy" may lead to "the necessity for the socialization of industry through the breakdown of the profit system," Sloan said: "I am convinced that industry should stand united and adamant against such a proposal."

through her practice of extending credit to firms and individuals and her inability to make collections in time to comply with the legal requirement on the 5th of each month.

Because the law is plain requiring that the office of the county recorder be conducted on a strictly cash basis, some members of the grand jury, in view of Mr. Lambert's testimony and his statement that "we can't altogether stand on the absolute technicality of the law, if we did we couldn't do anything," are reported to be taking the stand that his failure to notify the proper authorities of Miss Whitney's failure to make prompt settlement, in itself constitutes an offense.

School Officials Curious
While it could not be learned whether or not Mr. Lambert had explained to the satisfaction of the grand jury what he meant by his statement that if the "strict technicality of the law" was observed at all times "some of you folks on the school board, in that case, would be in the same jacket. Miss Whitney is," it is a fact that members of various school boards in the county have asked for explanations.

In addition to this request from members of school boards, it was said, private individuals have asked Mr. Lambert to explain whether he has any definite information on which to base such an accusation, or whether it was just a careless statement made without consideration of its far-reaching effects.

"A deacon is the lowest form of a Christian," another answered. "The letters, M. D., stand for mentally deficient, and a buttress is a lady who makes butter," were other answers.

'Idiosyncrasy' Stumps 'Em

Another feature of the classroom was a spelling bee. After all of the students had failed miserably to spell the simplest words, the teacher called upon George Wells, chairman of the school board, to spell the word idiosyncrasy. Mr. Wells gave up without even making an attempt, and was presented with a dunce cap. Lyle Mitchell, principal of the Willard Junior High school, and E. Steffensen also failed to spell the word and were presented with dunce caps.

The students in the class, although they were disguised in children's clothes, were recognized as Mrs. Claude Knox, Mrs. Dorothy Smith, Mrs. John Werhley, Jr., Mrs. Milo Tedstrom, Mrs. Carter Lane, Mrs. Rella Hays, Mrs. E. F. Elstrom, and Mrs. Gus Leive. The play was directed by Mrs. Maurice Enderle. Mr. Moore announced yesterday that installation of officers for the coming year will be held on the night of Dec. 10 at the Santa Ana Country club. Wives of Kiwanians will be invited to attend.

McBride joined Bishop James Cannon, Jr., of the Methodist Episcopal church, South, in predicting a new dry era by 1945.

TAX OFFICE IS BUSY TODAY

Scores of taxpayers stood in line today to get under the wire with first installment tax payments, which become delinquent when the office of Tax Collector John Lamb closes tonight.

Last Monday more than 2000 individuals paid their taxes over the counter, and indications were that this number would be equalled, if not exceeded, today. More than $1,000,000 of the first installment already has been paid into the office, with the heaviest payments, those of corporations and owners of vast acreage, coming in today through the mail.

CRASH DAMAGES DENIED BY JURY

Damages for injuries allegedly sustained in an automobile crash with a car driven by Mrs. Helen Lewis in Anaheim, were denied yesterday by a jury in department 1, superior court.

Mr. Barnes had sued Mrs. Lewis and her husband, J. V. Lewis, for $27,850, charging that Mrs. Lewis had been responsible for the crash. At the time of the crash, Mrs. Barnes was a passenger in the automobile driven by L. Gist.

HUGHES SEEKS RECORD

LOS ANGELES, Dec. 5. (AP)—Only a final tune-up and uncertain weather today stood between Howard Hughes and his attempt to add the transcontinental record to his world's land plane speed mark. The millionaire aviator and film producer is expected to take off late this week for New York in a nonstop effort to lower Col. Roscoe Turner's time of 16 hours and 2 minutes for the East-West dash.

THREE HIRED AT POSTOFFICE

Addition of three employees at the postoffice staff here was announced today by Acting Postmaster Frank Harwood. The increase was necessitated by the recent change from a 44-hour to a 40-hour week, Mr. Harwood said. The new employees are Leonard Echols, carrier, whose appointment was confirmed Dec. 1, and who started service as a substitute Oct. 31, 1929; Stafford Hurrell, carrier, whose appointment was confirmed on Dec. 1 and who started service as a substitute Nov. 1, 1929; and Harry Polk, clerk, whose appointment also was confirmed Dec. 1 and who began work as a substitute clerk Sept. 7, 1930.

In addition to the supervisors, the postoffice staff now includes 18 office clerks, two substitute and two temporary clerks; 28 carriers, including two parcel post carriers; four business district carriers; 20 residential area carriers; and two relief carriers; also three substitute carriers, one of whom takes care of special delivery mail; two temporary carriers; four rural route carriers; and two substitute rural carriers, Mr. Harwood said.

The postoffice employs one laborer and one substitute laborer. Under the custodian service administered by the postoffice there are a janitor, fireman, laborer, gardener and charwoman.

Supervisors are Assistant Postmaster Flake Smith, Superintendent of Mails L. F. Harvey and Carrier Foreman Clifford Langley. Sam Vogt is a special clerk.

ings. A partial schedule of these included a talk before the employees of the Sears-Robuck store here at 6 p. m. Friday, by John Kisch of the citizens committee speakers bureau, and another talk by Mr. Kisch tonight at a Legion post meeting here. There also will be speakers at Masonic meetings in Santa Ana and Anaheim this week.

Arrangements are being made to form committees in various civic club and business groups, who will contact members of their own profession, business or organization.

More For Committee

Yesterday afternoon the citizens committee met at James cafe to form campaign plans. At the same time the group decided to invite Clyde Simmonds of the Yorba Linda Star, James Farquhar of the Huntington Beach News, and W. O. Hart of the Orange News to join the committee.

An auditing committee was authorized. Those who will be asked to serve are Roland D. Flaherty, Col. M. B. Wellington, Ross Shaffer and Herbert Rankin.

The citizens' committee issued a statement today calling attention to the fact that on Dec. 19 the voters will be given an opportunity to vote for acceptance of a $6,574,000 federal grant to aid the water program. This can be done, the statement explains, by approval of the proposed $6,620,000 bond issue for the water program.

This election will be the last chance for Orange county to avail itself of the federal grant. On the following day, according to information from government authorities, the grant will be diverted to some other part of the nation, unless it is accepted by the voters through passage of the bond proposal.

accused Senator Edwards of dodging the vote on the island drilling bill which was defeated.

At the time the two bills were pending in the legislature, Mr. West spent considerable time in Sacramento in the interest of the island drilling plan. It was after his return from the capital that he made the charges of a "little Teapot Dome scandal."

Anxious to Know
Huntington Beach citizens who signed the petitions for the West probe are said to be anxious to know if any Orange county men were involved in alleged irregularities. Charges by Mr. West are proved, it is probable that the grand jury will be asked to take some action.

If the charges prove groundless a complete statement of the findings may be requested, it was indicated yesterday.

RED CROSS BRANCH EXCEEDS QUOTA IN ROLL CALL HERE

Mrs. Laura Warren, member of the Santa Ana Red Cross executive council, today announced that the Seal Beach-Sunset Beach branch of the chapter had exceeded its membership quota in the current roll call.

Assigned 80 members, Mrs. Marie Kennedy, chairman of the branch, has turned in a list of 90 subscribers, Mrs. Warren said. Mrs. George Teaney, chairman of the Costa Mesa unit, turned in a list of 47 annual members. The Seal Beach-Sunset Beach unit had no drive last year but reorganized this year under Mrs. Kennedy's direction.

GILBERT SHOWS SCHOOL NEEDS

Speaking before the Breakfast club this morning at the Main cafeteria, Guy J. Gilbert, general chairman of the citizens school building committee, stressed the two important points of necessity and safety in the campaign for bonds to be voted upon Thursday, Dec. 12.

He insisted that present facilities were inadequate, and that state engineers had declared three of the buildings of the high school plant unsafe, which threw the responsibility for liability not only upon the school board but upon the district as well, in case of injury to pupils from earthquakes.

He read a letter from Hamilton H. Cotton in which the San Clemente administration spokesman said that, in his opinion, the federal grant would still be available should the voters of Santa Ana endorse the two projects to be presented, the Junior Lathrop auditorium and the high school buildings, the former for $100,000 and the latter for $230,000.

The Breakfast club on a former occasion endorsed the projects.

The musical part of the program was presented by Maurice Phillips, vocal soloist, accompanied by Harry Garstang.

MENTON NOT TO SEEK RELIEF

The courthouse today was still buzzing with talk and speculation following the request Tuesday of Supervisor N. E. West for appointment of a special prosecutor to handle the case of County Recorder Justine Whitney, who has been indicted by the grand jury. Miss Whitney has been indicted on charges of appropriating county funds to her own use.

District Attorney W. F. Menton, commenting on Mr. West's motion, said that while the prosecution might be a distasteful duty to him, still he could not reasonably ask the attorney general to relieve him simply on this ground.

"It would be the line of least resistance for me to be relieved of such distasteful duty, but I can not ask the attorney general to relieve me on the grounds that it is distasteful," said Mr. Menton. "The attorney general can take charge of a prosecution at any time he sees fit, but he will not do so without sufficient grounds, and the fact that the duty is distasteful to me is not sufficient grounds for me to request to be relieved."

Mr. Menton declined to make any amplification of his statement of Tuesday to the effect that Mr. West probably would be called upon to substantiate the assertion that similar troubles in Miss Whitney's office were known two years ago when S. B. Kaufman was district attorney and Mr. Menton assistant district attorney.

A golf tournament preceded the dinner. Dental supply houses of the Southland contributed prizes.

'Feet-on-Desk-Sitters' of Santa Ana Agree in Part With Psychologist's Idea

By TED STEPHENSON

Dr. Donald A. Laird, Colgate university psychologist, who has convinced himself that "feet-on-the-desk sitters" are justified in that it aids one's mental efforts, created a great deal of comment on the subject in Santa Ana today.

"It sounds just like another psychologist trying to find something to kill time," one Santa Ana commented.

Psychologist Laird came to the conclusion, after a series of experiments with college students, that by placing one's feet on a table the brain cells were stimulated by more blood. Ordinarily, he said, the blood would be distributed to the feet.

Zabel Calls It Bunk
"It's a lot of hoey," according to Herman Zabel, head of the sheriff's bureau of identification. "Just bunk. It sounds like some cracked psychologist's idea. Personally, I think that when a fellow puts his feet on the desk while talking to another individual, he is showing an inferiority complex. If you want to start a war, just come into my office and put your feet on my desk."

Chief Criminal Deputy Merl Dean has different views on the subject.

"It's just natural for me to put my feet on the desk when I'm thinking," he remarked. "I don't know whether it helps any or not, but it's a fact. I do seem to think more clearly when I have my big gunboats parked on the edge of the desk."

No Time for It

T. E. Stephenson, county treasurer, didn't have much to say on the subject. Not being a "feet-on-the-desk sitter," he didn't feel qualified to act as an authority on the subject. Mr. Stephenson said that he never has been in the habit of raising the pedal extremities any higher than necessary, and in the first place he didn't have time to park his feet on anyone's desk—not even his own.

Harry V. Hansen, manager of the National Paint store, thinks the theory is fundamentally sound. "It sounds like a good theory," Hansen said. "It might be a good idea for a fellow to elevate his feet to the desk top now and then to sort of give his brain cells a crack at some fresh blood. If a man gets in the habit, though, he might sometimes get caught with his feet on the desk and not be able to get them down in time to go to work."

He's More Comfortable
Chief of Police Floyd Howard, a "feet-on-the-desk-sitter" of the first water, agrees with the psychologist in part. He believes that it helps thinking, but not merely because it brings more blood to the brain cells.

"I do it because I'm more comfortable with my feet resting on the edge of the desk," he said. "My personal opinion is that anyone can think better when he is comfortable than he can when he is uncomfortable."

Deputy District Attorney Preston Turner finds that he usually falls asleep when he places his feet on the desk edge. School Auditor Harold Yost experiences the same difficulty.

"I put my feet on the desk when I feel at peace with the world," Mr. Yost said. "I'm more or less in the same boat with Mr. Turner; I always fall asleep. If that is conducive to thinking, then I'm all for it."

200 PRESENT AS STUDENTS FETED AT CHURCH HERE

Two hundred members of the First Baptist church met last night to fete high school and junior college students who will be graduates of the class of '36.

The meeting, held in the form of a pot-luck supper in the banquet room of the church, carried out the Oriental motif. The decorations and program were arranged by the committee in charge composed of Mesdames Minnie Holmes, Franklin G. West and Benjamin Brubaker.

As guest speaker of the evening, the Woman's Society, sponsors of the event, presented Morris Singer of Orange, University of Redlands exchange student to the University of Hawaii last year. He showed moving pictures of the islands and spoke briefly on the topic, "Bridging Barriers."

Preceding the speaker was a program given by the Woman's Society which included selections by the organization's chorus, a devotional talk by Mrs. Seldon Martin, the reading of correspondence received from a Japanese university student by Mrs. Richard Robbins, and Oriental vocal solos by Miss Mary Nalle, Miss Beulah Parker and Mrs. Leslie Steffensen.

'TOO MUCH DRINKING'

LOS ANGELES, Dec. 5. (AP)—Mrs. R. B. Von KleinSmid, wife of the president of the University of Southern California, says there is "too much drinking in the bleachers at football games." Speaking at a meeting of the Women's Law Enforcement league, Mrs. Von KleinSmid asserted that college students under legal age are "getting all they want to drink."

TOT SURVIVES AFTER RARE OPERATION

Despite the fact that it was born outside its body, the infant child of Mr. and Mrs. Jesus Sarmaza was alive today in St. Joseph's hospital.

When the baby was born, the stomach, liver and part of the intestines were outside the body instead of in the abdominal cavity. An operation was required when the infant was between five and six hours old yesterday, to put the organs in their proper position.

The phenomenon is a very rare one. However, about 15 years ago a similar case occurred here and the child not only survived the operation but has continued to live and grow.

Physicians were watching the case with interest today to see the outcome of the unusual situation. When the organs were placed in their proper location they were somewhat crowded, probably because of the fact that the abdominal cavity had not grown normally to accommodate them.

The operation was performed by Dr. Arthur Robbins of Garden Grove. He explained today that the organs were not required to function outside the body before the baby was born because up until birth a child receives nourishment from its mother through the umbilical cord. After being placed in their proper position, however, the organs were required to perform their normal functions.

OPPONENTS OF WATER PLAN TO STAGE DINNER

Opponents of the county water program today announced that they will give a dinner to newspaper editors next Tuesday. They said it will be a turkey dinner. The event will take place at James cafe, starting at 6:30 p. m. A. J. McFadden, chairman of the executive committee of the Associated Water Users of Orange county, will speak about the proposed bond issue for the county water project.

"Impending Collapse"

A report by the division of architecture, department of public works, after inspection of the administration building, said that the "building is not considered safe for occupancy with respect to horizontal forces." It also said that the "roof construction for the west addition on this building was not properly anchored into the old existing wall or the new wall, and when this exterior new wall rotated outward on its footing (during the earthquake), the roof construction pulled out to such an extent that it is now in a state of impending collapse."

A similar report on the science building said it is "not safe for occupancy with respect to lateral forces."

One Man's Opinion

"Not long ago," said Mr. Crawford, "a man asked to be shown through these buildings. He said he had voted against the high school bonds at the last election and that his wife and mother also had voted against them. He was escorted through one of the buildings, but refused to complete the tour. He didn't think it was safe."

The board of education didn't think it was safe to house students in these structures, and that is why they are now located in the tent city of Babylon.

As I hopped off at a downtown intersection, the driver said:

"Well, you'll have to take another ride on the bus sometime. Next time it will be a nice, safe one."

Here and There With The Journal's
Rambling County Editor
By T. N. (BRICK) GAINES

UNLESS it rains, or snows, the mayors and supervisors of the county are going to pitch some more horseshoes at Newport Beach Saturday.

With one of our favorites, Mayor W. L. Hale of Fullerton, out of the running, we're obliged to boost for Mayor Tom Talbert of Huntington Beach as the final victor in the county-wide series. Mayor Tom gave away his secret of success at the last contest, when he attributed his success in overwhelming several contestants to the "chewin' tobacco" he was using at the time.

The only thing that gives us worry about the Huntington Beach mayor's chances is the report that Mayor Elmer Hughes of Seal Beach has been working up an appetite for "horseshoe plug" himself. Mayor Hughes looks like the most able opponent for Tom out of heavies who have appeared in the contest thus far. He was chewing tobacco during the last games, but observers reported that he purchased the wrong brand. If he's been wised up since then, our favorite'd better look to his laurels!

If you'll remember, other officials of Seal Beach were reported giving their mayor an intensive course of training for the contest. This report was substantiated when he swept through all his games. We haven't heard about his activities for Saturday's contests, but are quite willing to warn representatives of other cities that they have a worthy foe in Mayor Hughes.

Tustinites are going to be on the spot in this Saturday's events, because Mayor William Huntley and Councilman Fred Schwendeman both won their matches and are now the only two representatives of a city to come through undefeated. We hear that they'll have some noble competition from surviving supervisors, Mayor Fred Rowland and Councilman Joseph Smith from Santa Ana, and the other entries in the games.

We've been worrying and worrying about this big plow that Post Brothers have made out in Bolsa. It digs into the ground to such a depth that they're liable to strike water, or oil, or something.

However, if they'd strike water, that'd stop this bond issue business. Or would it? They'd need more flood control then, perhaps.

The longest north-and-south road in Orange county!

That's what Harry Overmyer, Huntington Beach city engineer, claims for the new highway, which will end in his community.

Hampshire avenue, which ends a short distance east of the business district, will be widened to 80 feet and will be the end of a highway which reaches from Big Pines park, high in the mountains, to the ocean.

The fast road now runs from Huntington Beach to Buena Park. We're quite sure where it's going from there, but Engineer Overmyer's going to find out—don't know whether it'll pass through La Habra and over the hills, or back through Whittier, but whichever way it goes, it's going to end at the beach.

There's a contest looming.

It's for the position of Santa Claus for the Coast association's Christmas party, scheduled for Dec. 17 at Costa Mesa.

Lots of times the Santa Claus job isn't so popular, but for this event, we hear, there's going to be lots of competition. Many names have been mentioned, including those of President Dan Mulholland, who's built about right for a prosperous looking Santa. Dr. Huston from Costa Mesa, who might be on the thin side for such a job, Elmer Hughes from Seal Beach, who'll probably be too busy training for the horseshoe pitching contest, and Tom Talbert—everybody'd know his voice, and nobody'd be fooled.

Whoever they pick to fill the position, it's going to be a fine party, we're told, with a turkey dinner and all the trimmings. Everyone's to bring a 10-cent gift, which'll be put on the Christmas tree—fun's guaranteed.

ORANGE TAX COLLECTIONS ARE REPORTED BEST IN YEARS

$25,438 IS TOTAL FOR NOVEMBER

Delinquencies Fewer, Is Report; Street Work
Start Ordered

ORANGE.—Tax collections for the city of Orange are much higher than other years, with fewer delinquencies, reported George Franzen, city tax collector, told members of the city council at a regular meeting last night.

Collections for November totaled $25,438, he said, and have been running heavier this month, he said.

Construction work on the Batavia street storm drain will be completed within a month, W. K. Hillyard, acting city engineer, told the council.

Action was taken for resurfacing 250 feet of La Veta street, with the grade to be brought down to a level with Batavia street. The city street department will be in charge of the work and will furnish material, while WPA labor will be used.

F. O. Smith appeared before the group and offered an 85-year-old gooseneck cutter sleigh for use of the city in the Tournament of Roses parade at Pasadena. His offer was tentatively accepted by the council. Mr. Smith offered to place wheels on the sleigh and furnish a horse to pull it, if the city would take care of decorations.

Construction of a 10-foot walk around the city's swimming pool was ordered. Cement now on hand will be used for the work, with Park Supt. Ben Dierker in charge.

No action was taken on a site for the proposed national guard armory site by the council last night.

Not to be outdone by the fast, hard-riding broncho-busters who raced around the arena in San Clemente's Old Spanish fiesta and rodeo last Saturday and Sunday, eight-year-old Jean Leahy, who lives on Thalia street in Laguna, claims title to the slowest and safest ride on record for the weekend.

At the Serpentarium, she mounted and rode "Oscar" all the way around the snake pit. It wasn't a hair-raising race, to be sure, because Oscar is a 40-pound Galapagos tortoise. And even though she's that's right—wasn't to go, on account of a juicy red apple being held within periodic nibbling distance from her unbecomingly nose, no speed records were challenged en route.

Jean sat astride Oscar's hard-shelled back with the ease and composure of a sultana riding to court on an elephant. She was not the least bit afraid, because the only dangerous part of the tortoise is the mouth, and that beak-like section of her anatomy was, like Eve, bent on getting the apple.

W. A. Bevan supplied and held the apple in front of Oscar's eyes. More than a few feet away she couldn't see it, which demonstrated the nearsighted tendencies of these creatures. When the apple was completely devoured, Mr. Bevan kept Oscar in a receptive mood by scratching her long and horny neck. To this treatment, she rolled and blinked her beady green eyes and almost seemed to purr with pleasure.

We asked Jean how much she weighed, and she said 59 pounds, which was good proof of the tortoise's strength. Finally she decided that Oscar's speed was unsuited for her active, young body, and hopped off with the remark, "It's a good thing I don't have to ride Oscar school every morning. I guess I'd never get there." Oscar ignored the slight and went on her way grubbing spears of grass.

A. Pierce Artran, curator, who lectures to school children on reptiles and animals during the winter months, arrived on the scene at this point and told us some interesting facts about these plodding reptiles, or tortoises.

He showed us "Agnes," who also hails from the Galapagos Islands, and chums around with Oscar. As evidence of their amicable relations, an apple was placed between them. After a few friendly hisses at each other—"Get away from that apple, you villain!"—both grabbed and tugged at the morsel until it was respectfully devoured.

Mr. Artran explained that the Galapagos variety are about an inch and a half in diameter when hatched, and they grow and put on weight rapidly. "Before the days of sailing ships," he said, "these islands swarmed with tortoises, but now are nearly extinct. When the English sailing ships touched at these islands to pick up fresh water and food, they brought dozens of tortoises aboard with them. When fresh meat was needed, they killed a tortoise."

"Another factor that made them an important part of the diet was that they could live for long periods without food, where as other animals taken on long trips had to be fed regularly," he went on. "But even worse than the sailing ships were the whalers, who slaughtered these big tortoises by the thousands merely for the precious oil that could be extracted. So you can see why there are so few of these creatures left. I suggested once that some of them be brought to Southern California for preservation."

When it came out that some of these big fellows had been known to attain a weight of over a thousand pounds, that was startling news. But when Mr. Artran told the story about the pet of St. Helena and Napoleon, our ears stuck out even farther.

More than a hundred years ago, as the story goes, an English sailing ship put in at the island of St. Helena, and as was the custom then, dropped a number of Galapagos tortoises to be used for fresh meat. Napoleon was a prisoner there at that time, and for some unrecorded reason one of the tortoises was adopted by the prisoners as a pet and allowed free run of the island.

This favored creature weighed only 150 pounds when it was removed from the ship. It is still there, according to reports, and still roams the island. Only instead of being a mere baby of 150-odd pounds, it now weighs over 600 pounds.

A story like that makes one wonder how many more world upheavals this horny old tortoise will live through. And how many more Napoleons will scratch his leathery neck!

Although Galapagos tortoises remains comparatively active the year round in a warm climate, Mr. Artran explained, the domestic tortoises hibernate during the winter months. In their native haunts on the deserts of Arizona, they burrow into the sand and remain covered for several months. Their metabolism or bodily activity slows down to a point where all digestion ceases when the weather turns cold, so there is nothing left for them to do but hole up for the winter.

Maybe that explains their longevity and ceaseless activity when the sun shines.

Anyway, little Jean Leahy had had first ride on a tortoise. We all felt better acquainted with Oscar and Agnes and their hard-shelled ancestors. Mr. Artran wanted to get away for lunch. But when Oscar slobbered up to one of my shoes with an apple-look in her eyes, at that moment the party broke up.

Besides, all tortoises ought to be put to bed for the winter!

Orange Group Hears of Foreign Trade From Banking Expert

ORANGE.—"Southern California and Foreign Trade," was the subject chosen by Gustav Riedlin, vice president and manager of the international banking department of the Bank of America, when he spoke before the Lions club yesterday noon.

The westward trend of our country still holds good, he said, but it is trade now instead of new land that is being developed. It would be desirable to detach ourselves from the rest of the world, but that is impossible, except politically, he added.

In the seven-year period ending in 1933 10 per cent of our manufactured products were exported, but 30 per cent of our agricultural products were sent abroad, he said. Foreign trade is not the only solution to our economic ills, but is a feature that cannot be overlooked, he declared. Our ability to export also depends on our ability to import, and we realize our dependence when we know that it takes products from 18 other countries to make a complete automobile, Mr. Riedlin said.

Steps have been taken lately to correct trade conditions between countries, but much discrimination against American goods seems to be present, he said, adding that the present much discussed trade agreements made by the President seem to be best for the country as a whole.

Three new members, Carl Schroeder, Loren Housley and Albert Bosch, were taken into the club, with induction rites performed by Gordon X. Richmond.

About Bowls and Bowls

IF YOU have a lot of money and still more luck, you can get seats to the Rose Bowl game at prices ranging from $1.50 to $4.40. The top price is for between the goal line seats—the bottom is for those ends zone seats. If your application is not yet in the mail you'd better bust down to the p. o. at once. You may be too late already but don't say we didn't warn you. You can telephone Wakefield 4112 in Pasadena, too, for reservations.

Hundreds may, thousands are buying places on special trains to run from the Lone Star state and if the Texas fans have their way about it, there won't be any room in the Pasadena bowl for Californians or tourists other than those from the Gulf state. Scores of the middle western fans are lining up with the Texans and have wired by the bushel basket for this gigantic exodus to the west.

Here's one of those maybe-so-maybe-no stories. It's about the proposed, or rather rumored, split of the junior college conferences. Pomona seems to be the spearhead of the attack just now. The Pomona, we're told, are "tired and tired" of losing half a dozen games to conference rivals each fall and want something done about it.

Pat O'Mara, dean of men at Pasadena Junior college and Western division conference commissioner denies it, but rumors of a new league based on the "6-4-4 plan" persist. The schools—which one report says have already conferred—would be Pasadena and Compton, formerly affiliated with the Western division; Ventura, current divisional champions; Oceanside, a free-lance aggregation; Pomona and the San Diego Army-Navy Junior college.

The "6-4-4 plan" proposes six years of elementary school, four of high school and four of junior college. Only students of the last two years would be eligible for varsity competition, with the first-year men participating in a freshman league.

Don't let anyone tell you that American athletes would not be represented in the Berlin Olympics—no matter how much debating they do about it at the coming Amateur Athletic Union meeting. Avery Brundage, president of the American Olympic committee, said today that many U. S. athletes will go to Nazi-land even if they must pay their own expenses.

"To those alien agitators and their American stooges who would deny our athletes their birthright as American citizens to represent the United States in the Olympic games in Germany," fired Brundage, "our athletes reply in modern vernacular, 'Oh, yeah?'"

"Our women skiers, competing in the Olympics for the first time, raised their own funds in a few days. If malicious propaganda makes it necessary," he concluded, "the members of the summer teams will do the same."

Yours truly and a lot of others who think Americans should go to Berlin at any cost, will likely be glad to chip in a couple of thin dimes if they're needed.

MIDDLE WEST TEAMS TAKE INTERSECTIONAL HONORS

NEW YORK, Dec. 5. (AP)—Despite a late rally by Eastern forces, intersectional honors for the 1935 football season belong to the Midwest and Southwest. Midway through the campaign it looked as if the East were headed toward its worst year in major tests with teams from other sections, but Atlantic Seaboard eleven came through in fine style during the closing weeks to gain an even break in 40 intersectional contests.

This failed, however, to approach the Southwest's mark of nine victories in 13 games and the Midwest's fine record of 25 victories and 16 defeats.

OLYMPIC ROW GETS AIRING TOMORROW

NEW YORK, Dec. 5. (AP)—The blizzard of words which has been blowing from all sides on the question of whether the United States should send its athletic teams to the 1936 Olympic games at Berlin and Garmisch-Partenkirchen tomorrow.

Meeting for its annual three-day convention, the Amateur Athletic union probably will take up that matter as soon as possible and decide definitely whether to support the participation of American teams.

The question probably will be threshed out tomorrow at a caucus meeting of the executive committee with the leaders of the "pro" and "con" factions, Avery Brundage, Chicago, and Jeremiah I. Mahoney, New York, on hand to dispute in person. It is expected to come before the general convention Saturday.

Indications were that the fight for a boycott of the Berlin games might come down to a struggle between Brundage and Mahoney for the A. A. U. presidency. Brundage, former president, and chairman of the American Olympic committee, has been actively campaigning in favor of participation.

Mahoney, who took the presidency last year, recently indicated he might run again in order to carry on his fight for the boycott. Advocates of the boycott claim at least nine of the 34 sectional associations on their side and expect support from others which have not gone on record.

—AND TWO OTHER BOUTS—

RED M'MANUS HELPS J.C. TAKE LOSS

Fullerton 'Dead-Eyes' Assist Commercial Leaguers to Win

Two Fullerton dead-eyes, Douglas Wheeler and Jack (Red) McManus, went on scoring rampages to usher Scottie's champions of the Commercial league to a one-sided basketball victory over Santa Ana Junior college, 52 to 24, in Andrews gym last night.

Southpaw Wheeler single-handedly tossed in 23 points, just one less than Coach Al Reboin's entire collection of Dons could garner. McManus was responsible for 19, mainly as the result of effective side shots. They broke loose in the second half after Scottie's was held 13-13 for two quarters.

Dons Lack Polish Handicapped by lack of height, the Don cagers probably will not make much progress in the Eastern conference next month unless their team work improves immensely. Thus far—in two defeats from the Orange Concordians and last night's reversal—their attack has been ragged.

Reboin was to take his charges to Tustin High school this afternoon for a scrimmage with Coach Bill Cole's Orange league Tilers. He has arranged a practice session with the U. S. C. freshmen in Los Angeles next Tuesday.

Will Play Oceanside

A week from Friday the Dons entertain Oceanside Junior college, a team coached by Blanchard Beatty, who mentored the Dons last winter.

MOVIES AFTER MAX BAER

HOLLYWOOD, Dec. 5. (AP)—The movies are luring Max Baer from the cattle raising career he favored after losing to Joe Louis in a New York ring last September. A Neil Hoffman, the ex-heavyweight champion's manager, interviewed actors' agents in Hollywood today.

"They're all after Baer for one thing or another," said Hoffman. Then there is an offer for Max to go over to Paris in January to open the Cafe de Paris and make a picture in England.

TROJANS PLAN PASS ATTACK

LOS ANGELES, Dec. 5. (AP)—Primed for a sensational renewal of their gridiron rivalry, football squads of Washington and Southern California scheduled last workouts here today before clashing Saturday in their final conference game of the season.

All-America

The eleventh annual all-America eleven selected by Alan Gould, general sports editor of The Associated Press, will be presented in The Journal next Saturday, Dec. 7.

The qualities of the gridiron greats in every section of the nation are weighed and passed upon by Gould's large staff of observers before winning places in football's Hall of Fame, which is recognized as the standard wherever the game is played.

Gould's selections, dating back to 1925, represents the consensus of sports observers, officials and coaches—the men who know every phase of football.

Watch for the 1935 all-America, which will be accompanied by the first and second alternate elevens and the honorable mention roll.

Cordoba Knocks Out Golden

Gloves Rival in 5 Seconds;

Benzor Advances With Kayo

HOLLYWOOD, Dec. 5. Knock-out punches today had placed two boys representing the Orange County Athletic club in favored positions as amateur boxers looked forward to the third round of the Southern California Golden Gloves tournament here.

Lupe Cordoba, representing the Orange county club, and Southern Pacific A. A. U. champion, hung up a new knockout record for the tournament when he laid out Art Martinez in five seconds last night.

Lupe touched gloves with his rival, threw a right and left slam at Martinez. Both blows caught Martinez above the eye and he went down cold.

Don Benzor, Anaheim lad, kayoed Ernest Long, U. S. S. Nevada, in the fourth round.

Other second round results: 112-Pound Class—Johnny Varner, unattached, outpointed Gene Murphy, Pasadena arena; Willie Savidan, Ocean Park, stopped M. Clair, U. S. S. Nevada (4).

GAELS ON SHORT END

SAN FRANCISCO (AP)—The football prognosticators like Oregon university to beat St. Mary's here Sunday. Here is their logic: Oregon defeated Washington, 7-6; Washington defeated Washington State, 21-0; Washington State and St. Mary's tied 7-7. From another angle, California defeated St. Mary's 10-0 and Oregon, 6-0.

COST OF T. B. IS TOLD BY OFFICIAL

Purchase of Seals Is A Fine Investment, Says Cruickshank

The purchase of Christmas Seals is a first rate investment, both from an economic as well as a health standpoint, according to A. J. Cruickshank, Santa Ana, treasurer of the California Tuberculosis Association.

Mr. Cruickshank, in a statement today, said:

"The cost of tuberculosis in the United States totals more than a billion dollars annually. The expense of caring for tuberculosis patients is $127,000,000. Five hundred and thirty-five million dollars is lost in wages, and it is estimated that the United States loses $539,000,000 due to deaths from this malady.

"Costly Disease"

"Because of the expensive treatment and income lost during the long period of illness caused by tuberculosis, it is one of the most costly diseases. In 1935, for every death from the disease, it is estimated there were nine active cases.

"Under present mortality conditions, tuberculosis cuts off two and one-half years from the complete expectation of life of every individual. If each individual were to add only $100 to the community wealth per year, tuberculosis would cost the community $250 per person, or the above total of $539,000,000.

Cost Is Analyzed

"The average cost of a patient is two and one-third years, and he is unable to earn for at least one year. Figuring the annual earnings of a person as $1000, the $28,000 tuberculosis cases would show a loss of income of $28,000,000 added to the annual loss of $539,000,000. If all the $28,000 cases received sanatorium care, the cost would be about $414,000,000, or an annual loss of $127,000,000.

"These figures show the terrific odds that Christmas Seals are facing in the battle against tuberculosis. The payments which this disease exacts from humanity are financial as well as physical.

"We must carry on this work. We must have the cooperation of the united public during this seal sale."

GOING TO HAVE FANCY SHAPES And G. G. Rancher Grows 'Em

Charles Havens, who lives near Garden Grove, is a versatile rancher. He not only has a respectable farming plot, but in addition he grows bottles, shillalahs, eggs and a variety of other rarities.

His hobby is cross-pollinating gourds and sometimes he gets weird results. His smooth species get bumps and his green ones are striped with splashes of orange. A large round gourd of tangerine color has a top crown of green, white and tan to make it look like a Turkish turban. The orange part makes a good pie, he declares.

Among his gourds is an Italian green of veined pattern, tapering like a bottle, which ends in a graceful hook.

GIRLS TO PRESENT 'NIFTY SHOP' AT WILLARD SCHOOL

Musical entertainment is in store for those who go to Willard school auditorium tomorrow night at 8 o'clock to see the presentation of "The Nifty Shop," a one-act opera by the senior girls' glee club of the school under Miss Helen Glancy.

Chandler's furniture store have supplied a complete set of modern white furniture for the stage of the French gown shop where the play is laid.

One of his authentic pale green bottle gourds turned Frankenstein on him and grew out of all bounds to be about three feet high and heavy, so that now he calls it a shillalah.

Given a coat of white shellac, the gourds make smart table decorations and will last a lifetime. The grower has one 35 years old. Mr. Havens trained a long-stemmed variety around in spiral fashion to look like a French horn. He's been experimenting for about a year now and hopes to get even more interesting shapes.

When he's done all that he can with the gourds, Mr. Havens may take to turning out freak corn. He has some Hopi Indian ceremonial corn at his ranch from which to start.

Marion Morrill, Jean Linsenbard, Anita Kerby, Florine Gilbert, Bonnie Schmid, Murva Dressler, Leona Shaver and Lorie Buell take the leads. Mary Boyd accompanies at the piano. Miss Willys Anderson and Mrs. Richard Low are assisting Miss Glancy, and Miss Mariberta Greene and Miss Mariberta Libby are in charge of make-up.

Following the opera, which is from the pen of Otis M. Karrington, a farce ballet will be given by the senior boys' glee club under Miss Esther Jean Davis. Orchestra numbers will be presented under S. J. Murrill. A small admission fee will be charged.

Radio Roundup

TONIGHT'S PROGRAMS

By HOMER CANFIELD

KING CROON IS BACK with us! Swing-that-thing and sentimental Bing Crosby, sob in his voice and all, starts entrenchments on the Kraft Music Hall preparatory to taking over the entire show Jan. 2. Tonight, and until that date, the heart-throb of popular ditties will share the spotlight with his former music master, Paul Whiteman. (KFI-NBC, 7-8)

The Crosby portion will originate in Hollywood. Designing the musical backgrounds for the crooner will be Jimmy Dorsey, likewise a graduate of Whiteman's and former roommate of Bing's when the two worked for Papa Paul.

Jimmy has his own band now (ditto for brother Tommy) and Crosby's friendship landed him on the show. But friendship or no friendship, Dorsey has a real band and his music will insure the weekly paycheck. The crooner is nobody's fool when it comes to picking musicians.

It should be a proud moment for both of them—and for Whiteman too, when the switch in controls from New York to Hollywood divides the starring honors. It seems that all who have had the good fortune to be associated with the King of Jazz bear nothing but deep respect, gratitude and a son-like reverence for the man himself as well as Whiteman the musician.

It's a nice story (true) and bears repeating. During his last visit to the coast, the famed conductor featured a song of a lesser known song writer. When by chance meeting Whiteman days later, the composer explained who he was and thanked him for playing his songs.

Whiteman responded: "You shouldn't thank me, rather I should thank you. Your song is beautiful and it did me a great deal of good to have it on my program. Thank you very much."

And he really meant it.

THE OUTSTANDING offering on the Columbia network is "To Arms For Peace." Frank B. Kellogg, secretary of state under President Coolidge and recently retired justice of the World Court, author of the Kellogg Peace pact and holder of the Nobel Peace Prize for 1930, will speak. (KHJ, 6-30-7)

The broadcast will also present Elizabeth Rethberg, soprano, a dramatic sketch based on the play and motion picture, "Dark Angel," and a Spanish medley by Howard Barlow's orchestra.

Deams Taylor emcees the program.

360 PUPILS GIVEN LOW GRADES

Activities of many junior college students are expected to be curtailed by irate parents following the issuing of deficiency notices this week, according to D. K. Hammond, director and dean of Santa Ana Junior college.

The deficiency slips are sent to the parents of students who are failing in one class or have "D" grades in two or more. A total of 360 students have received these unsatisfactory notices for the work done in the first quarter of the year.

"This total is much smaller than last year. We believe this is because of the new eligibility ruling whereby a student is ineligible for an entire quarter following reports at mid-term," Mr. Hammond said. A new eligibility list will be certified on Dec. 20.

All junior college instructors will consult with parents or students concerning the work and deficiency slips. Parents may make appointments with the instructor through the jaycee office by telephone.

Joyce Kilmer, the journalist and poet, was killed in action near Serin, France, July 30, 1918.

Here's Dirt in Your Pocket! That's One Pupil's Comment on 'Auditorium' at Lathrop

When students at Julia Lathrop Junior High school were asked to write essays on why they need an auditorium, one of the bond issues to face Santa Ana Dec. 12, they had a ready answer. Following are some of their opinions:

Robert Porter: "I feel that if Lathrop had a new auditorium, the complete student body and teachers would be well pleased and it would make a pupil prouder to say 'I go to Lathrop.' The annual Lathrop play could be given at the school of its production. Also speakers could come to Lathrop to serve the southern part of town. 'The auditorium we have now, but cannot boast of, is a dilapidated garage shell, stained and torn, with no control for heat. The stage is made of rough planks and the floor is dirt, making it easy for someone to put dirt in someone else's pockets.'

People "Ashamed"

"The people were so ashamed of themselves when the bonds failed that they have raised a petition for another vote. This time they hope they will use a little common sense and vote 'yes.'"

Evelyn Owens: "Who enjoys cold, rainy weather? Nobody likes it. You especially dislike it if you are sitting through a school assembly on rough wooden planks, with the rain seeping in through the broken windows, making mud puddles on the earth floor. "Of course there are other places to meet. We could have our assemblies in our small rotunda with the children crowded close together, all standing, listening attentively to a speaker on a stage consisting of two large tables from our sewing room. The disadvantages of this are the small space in which to crowd 700 pupils and the lack of chairs."

"See For Yourself"

"If you don't believe all of this, come down to Lathrop and see for yourself, the rough wooden planks, the broken windows of our shed, now being used as an auditorium and the lack of room in our small rotunda."

"Vote 'yes' on the school bonds and urge all of your friends to do the same."

Anna de Groot: "We need an assembly hall so we can have programs for the students of this school and also for their parents. We used to have to stand up in the rotunda, but now we use the old shop building for our auditorium."

"If you do not believe what we say about our auditorium, you must come and see for yourselves, but be sure you wipe your feet on the doormats so that you won't get our nice dirt floor all muddy."

AUTOMOTIVE COUNCIL TO CHOOSE COST STATISTICIAN

An expert cost statistician to study costs of dump truck operation will be selected in the near future by the board of directors of the automotive council of Orange county. The expert will prepare figures to be used at rate hearings to be conducted at San Francisco and Los Angeles Dec. 12 and 17. George W. Young, vice president of the organization, said today he expects the statistician will be selected before Dec. 12.

Appointment of the expert was authorized by the board of directors at a meeting Monday night. Herbert Cameron, attorney for the state railroad commission; David G. Shearer, secretary of the council of trucking operations at Los Angeles, and Robert Knoll, vice president of the Motor Truck association of California, were the speakers. Al Foster, president of the automotive council, presided. Speakers were introduced by William E. Swain, Jr., executive secretary.

COTTON CONFIDENT OF FEDERAL GRANT FOR SCHOOL PROJECT

GILBERT GETS ASSURANCE OF FUNDS

City Votes Dec. 12 on Bonds; Government's Aid Is Sought

Hamilton H. Cotton, Democratic leader, today expressed confidence that the Public Works administration will make a money grant to Santa Ana to aid in carrying out its high school rebuilding program. In a letter to Guy Gilbert, chairman of the citizens committee supporting a proposed bond issue for the project, Mr. Cotton said:

"In the event that the citizens of Santa Ana evidence their willingness to improve and safeguard their school properties by voting the necessary bonds to finance this needed program, there is every reason to believe that the federal government will supplement these funds by a grant to further this worthy program, and although the time is late, some recission of California projects can probably be diverted to Santa Ana."

The board of education has requested grants of the PWA and also the Works Progress administration. The bond election will be held Dec. 12, the total amount asked being $325,000. This amount would be enough to carry out the construction program without the grant, but would be used in its entirety if the grant were received. The board felt it advisable to ask for the full amount to be available in case the grant does not develop. In the bond election held last September it was not known on the day of election whether the grant would be available or not. The grant requested is 45 per cent of the $325,000, or $146,250.

The building program proposes replacement of two high school structures and a shop building damaged by the 1933 earthquake and erection of an auditorium at the Julia Lathrop school.

Prizes in the series of parties that has been held went to Mrs. Elmer Pickel in bridge and Mrs. Doro Morrow in 500.

Mrs. P. A. Murray of Bakersfield was awarded the pillow which Mrs. Jean Tremble donated as a gift recently.

Fiddles and Flutes of 37 Years Ago Started What Is Now Santa Ana's Symphony

By ELLEN SNEBLEY

"Hello, Abner. How'd you like to bring your fiddle down to the church tonight, and play?"

Perhaps the name wasn't Abner. Anyway, the fiddle went to the old Congregational church, and so did Tom Jones' flute and Ed Brown's cello—and out of that informal get-together grew Santa Ana's first symphony orchestra, some 37 years ago.

"We called it a symphony because we liked the name, but we played mostly overtures because they were more fun to do," recalls Cliff Langley, the orchestra's first director.

Langley First Director

Mr. Langley, who directed the old Grand Opera orchestra when he came to town 38 years ago, flourished a baton over the symphony group until 12 years ago.

Thirty-five "amateurs" rubbed rosin on their bows or polished up their brasses to the shining point, and spent one night each week at the church, practicing.

At first, they gave concerts in the church. Sometimes they "went highbrow" and did some of Haydn's lighter works. Mostly, it was rousing, bang-up works with a "tune to 'em."

Some Old-Timers

Mr. Langley's son, Jack, who's now in Los Angeles, Loren Canon and Leon Eckles are some of the old-timers in the symphony, the veteran director recalls.

Time passed, and the group kept on playing, held firmly together by its common love of music. Two seasons, concerts were given in Birch park when there was no city band.

About 20 years ago, the musicians moved to Chandler's music store to practice. Then 12 years ago, D. C. Cianfoni took over the directorship, when illness kept Mr. Langley in a hospital for six months and his postoffice duties subsequently prevented him from continuing with the orchestra. Edward Burns, Santa Ana cellist, and Georgia Belle Walton, present concertmaster of the group, came into prominence among the players.

Once Charged Admission

The city paid a salary to the new director, and admission was generally charged for the concerts. Outside talent was called in for the soloist work, and for a time the professional element entered the symphony.

Two years ago, reorganization resulted in the choice of Elwood Bear as new director. For the past two years, he has given his services, and music has been provided by a philanthropic-minded member of the orchestra.

From Los Angeles, San Bernardino, Pasadena and the Pomona valley as well as from cities throughout Orange county, musicians now come faithfully to the Monday night practices in First Methodist church. This year the adult education night school is sponsoring the group, and a small sum is paid to Mr. Bear.

Concert on Sunday

Sunday evening in the First Methodist church, a concert planned along Los Angeles Philharmonic orchestra lines will be given at 7 o'clock by the ambitious group whose only reward is the joy of creating beautiful music for the citizens of Santa Ana.

A free will offering will be taken after the concert, and proceeds will go to defray the church expenses and make a running fund for the orchestra.

Rose Marie Flint, association president, hopes that four concerts may be given this year, and the orchestra which has survived so many changing years in the community looks forward eagerly to playing in the new Santa Ana High school auditorium in the coming season.

Orchestra members follow: Violins—Georgia Belle Walton, Simon Plas, Leon Eckles, Audrey Gramas, Margaret Johnston, George Lusk, Helen Lutz, Robert McAvoy, Pauline Rhoades, Faye Spicer, Viola Stout, Pauline Thompson, Robert Townsend, Marvin Ashford, Eleanor Cadiz, Venita Chapman, Ronald Collis, Mary Everett, Olive Gehard, Robert Haven, Merlon Hicks, Margaret Jaber, Harriet McGilliard, Betty Norland, Valerika Porter, Lloyd Robbins, Barbara Robinson, Alice Titensor and Henry Voss.

Violas—Carl Adams, Marjorie Dudley, Rose Marie Flint, Minacham Miropolsky, Doris Muller, Leo Robbins, Cecil Short, Harold Walberg.

Cellos—Edward Burns, Anna May Archer, Estevan Rodriguez, Evelyn Scheiber, Dumont Scott, Lucille Smith, Thor Walberg, John Ward, Winifred Weibrecht.

Basses—Sam Garrett, Osborn Stout, Orley West, Wilson Gunn, Harp—Mary Ellen Truxaw.

Flutes—Philip Hood and James Guthrie.

Piccolo—James Guthrie.

Oboes—Fred Ferrey and Robert Williams.

English horn—Fred Ferrey.

Clarinets—Carroll Manning and Robert Noble.

Bassoons—Emmette Holman and Ray Nowlin.

Horns—Louis Hanson and Glenn Cave.

Trumpets—Leland Auer, Otho Littrell and Vincent Shank.

Trombones—Oswald Stock, Clare Brown, Marion Madison and George Redfield.

Tuba—Dan Stover.

Tympani—William Jennings.

Drum—Cecil Cartwright, Ray Raymond and Russell Rowland.

Officers are Rose Marie Flint, president; Leland Auer, first vice president; George Lusk, second vice president; Helen Lutz, secretary; Marjorie Dudley, treasurer; Fred Ferrey, librarian; Philip Hood, business manager; Norrell Rose, assistant business manager; Edward Burns, concert chairman; Frieda Rowland, publicity, and June Burns, social chairman.

TICKETS HERE FOR TESTIMONIAL DINNER

Tickets have been placed on file at the Santa Ana chamber of commerce for a testimonial dinner to be given in honor of C. B. Afflebaugh, secretary-manager of the combined Los Angeles, Riverside and Orange county fair. The event will be held in Ebell club, Pomona, at 7 p. m., Thursday, Dec. 12.

Sponsored by the senior and junior chambers of commerce, service clubs and other civic organizations, the dinner will be attended by 400 representative citizens of Southern California. It will be an informal stag affair. The main address will be delivered by Brian Bell, chief of staff of the Associated Press on the Pacific coast.

Orange county will be officially represented by members of the board of supervisors and others.

Santa Ana Declares State Agricultural Control May Work

SACRAMENTO, Oct. 5. (AP)—Control legislation for agriculture may prove more workable under state laws than through federal statutes, A. J. McFadden, president of the California agricultural prorate commission, said today.

The Santa Ana farm leader told the 65th convention of California fruit growers and farmers this possibility arises because legislatures have a more flexible law-making power than congress.

Congress Limited

Congress is limited to powers granted by the constitution. Legislatures have all powers not denied by state or federal constitutions, said Mr. McFadden.

"Thus the courts may consistently hold statutes hinging on constitutional enactment to be invalid and at the same time hold state statutes exactly similar in nature to be valid," he said.

He said the future of California's prorate act rests upon a forthcoming decision of the state supreme court. Lower courts have granted certain lemon growers an injunction against a prorate program. The commission has asked that it be nullified.

Hopes for Best

A favorable decision will "largely" end any other attacks, Mr. McFadden said. An unfavorable decision will "end" the commission. If the lemon prorate program is permitted, he said, it "will prove an outstanding success."

Dr. A. G. Boyd, of the state department of agriculture, said California is "trailing the nation" in eliminating bovine tuberculosis.

Although 152,000 cattle have been killed, 70,000 infected cattle remain. Unless the eradication program continues on a broad scale, he said outside markets gradually will "close their doors" against California dairy products.

P. T. A. SELECTS BEST MOVIES

Heading the list of "best of the months," according to the motion picture committee of the Parent-Teacher association is "Ah, Wilderness," an M. G. M. social drama, directed by Clarence Brown.

The O'Neill play is said to come to the screen with a wealth of atmospheric detail which recreates a New England village of 1906 when 9 o'clock was late and 12 o'clock the middle of the night. It is felt good for family or adults.

Annie Oakley, world renowned crack shot of Buffalo Bill's "Wild West Show," comes to the screen in a biographical picture of the same name. Thrilling scenes with skillful riding, expert shooting and roping are felt to make it realistic entertainment for family and junior matinees.

Jack Conway directed "A Tale of Two Cities" from the novel by Charles Dickens. It is declared excellent for the family but not for small children.

For fantasy, "Peter Ibbetson," directed by Henry Hathaway of Paramount, rates a "rare treat for those who enjoy the beautiful and fine." It is confined to adults.

"So Red the Rose," from Paramount, is declared excellent for the family.

HOOVER WILL PRESS NEW DEAL WAR

Ex-Secretary Writes G. O. P. Chief Is Not Seeking Office

NEW YORK, Dec. 5. (AP)—Herbert Hoover will intensify his attacks on the New Deal during the coming year, says his former secretary, but not with the idea of gaining public office.

Theodore Joslin, writing in the Dec. 7 issue of Today under the heading, "He Wants Nothing for Himself," denies his former chief is building up a political organization for 1936.

"The blunt truth is," Joslin writes, "that he has no organization, political, personal or otherwise, today. And it is about the first time in 20 years that he has not."

Increased Interest

Refreshed from his arduous days in the White House, Mr. Hoover is pictured as taking an increasingly active interest in public affairs, Joslin, who served him from 1931 to 1933, writes:

"He has one particular objective in life today. That is to get the absolute fundamental national issues before the American people. He is the head of the Republican party. That is the party of the opposition, as he sees it, fearlessly to project debate on national policies. This is especially true when the principles of the administration mark a departure, to his mind, from the whole American system of government."

After Issues

"As the titular leader of the opposition, he will go after the merits of the issues hammer and tongs. He will confine his arguments to principles. There will be nothing personal in his criticisms. He never 'smears' men. . . .

"He will be the Fighting Quaker this coming year. He will give everything he has to the fight—cold facts, logic, satire, humor. So far as he is concerned, the chips may fall where they may."

Joslin pictures Mr. Hoover as an amiable country squire who chats with gas station attendants and plumbings and munches peanuts in the football stadium.

KIWANIS SEATS NEW OFFICIAL

Five members of the Santa Ana Kiwanis club Tuesday night accompanied George Wells to Buena Park, where he was installed as lieutenant governor of division four of the club. Mr. Wells was nominated for the position several weeks ago.

All the clubs in division four were represented at the meeting, with Dan O'Hanlon of the Fullerton club acting as presiding officer. Loren Moore, president of the Santa Ana club, who was unable to attend the meeting, was represented by President-elect Dr. Melbourne Mabee.

Others who attended from Santa Ana were Gus Leive, secretary of the club, C. O. Knox, Lyle Mitchell and E. Steffensen. The speaker at the installation meeting was A. Heber Winder, past governor of the California-Nevada district.

A single row of corn 20 miles long is on Grady Orr's farm near Danville, Ala., and he cultivates his farm by proceeding spiral fashion until, three days later, his one-row farm is plowed.

Claudette and Her Shy Fiance

Claudette Colbert, movie star, and Dr. Joel J. Pressman, Hollywood throat specialist, are shown as they admitted in San Francisco that they planned to be married. Earlier in the day on their arrival from Los Angeles by plane, Dr. Pressman smashed a camera and hid in a car to elude photographers. He came here to deliver a scientific lecture, and the pretty actress accompanied him, she said, "just for the trip." (Associated Press Photo)

PENSION PLAN POWER IS GROWING

Democrat Leader Says Influence to be Felt in Next Election

WASHINGTON, Dec. 5. (AP)—Back from a tour of New England, Dr. F. E. Townsend arranged to see "60 or 70" aides in the movement to have the government give $200 a month to persons over 60 years.

His arrival coincided with a growing disposition among political leaders to agree that the Townsend movement would play a definite part in the 1936 elections.

One of President Roosevelt's advisers was credited with the view that the influence of Townsends would figure in congressional contests, not in Presidential voting.

Senator Steiwer (R., Ore.) said the movement was "very strong" in his state.

Harry L. Hopkins, works progress chief, said yesterday the plan is "fallacious on many counts but it is a power to be reckoned with because of its definiteness. It promises a definite amount each month for definite purposes."

A Lucky Find

MORE ABOUT HIGH COURAGE

a sheet draped around her shoulders. Above her stood Miina, lips pursed in a tight line as she lifted a sharp pair of barber's scissors. Clip, clip. Anne felt that her past life was being cut from her. Clip, clip. She felt a frantic desire to stay Miina's hand. She was acting too hastily.

"You look better already," declared Miina, stepping back and surveying her. "I left it kind of long but the curl will fix it up. And if you'll let me fix your brows like mine—"

Later that day, after the obliging Violet had ministered to her, Anne turned again to the mirror and stared in surprise. An elfin face peered out from a mass of curls; the straight black, heavy brows had given away to thin half arches.

She was pretty now, as Sharlee had been pretty, but she had lost that distinctiveness which had set her apart from the average girl. And she was glad. A new self and a new name at this time, meant more of a chance for peace.

The children came in from school, surveyed her, decided she was all right, and chatted with her half in English, half in Finnish, much to her bewilderment. But she learned much of the household into which she had forced her way.

There were signs of rigid economy, explained by Miina in her frank manner. "Pa just up and left; left ma with the house and all the kids and until we were old enough to help she had a pretty hard time. Aunt Liisa's salary helps. Both the big boys, George and Ovi, are boat pullers. They'd like to have a boat of their own, then Len could help when he's out of school. In that way, with me working in the cannery, Mom could stay at home. But," and she hunched her shoulders in a futile gesture, "we won't ever get enough to buy a boat and an outfit."

"Do they cost so much?" Anne remembered a little of what Luke had said that night in Lee's library.

"Oh they could start on five hundred. The cooperative cannery would let them start with that, and then the payments out of their haul."

(Copyright, 1935, by Jeanne Bowman)

Anne learns the worst, tomorrow, from the Portland papers.
